Start of Block: Explanatory statement

Q1.1 EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

You are invited to take part in this survey which is part of the Communicating Health Project, a Monash University and RMIT University collaboration funded by the National Health and Medical Research Council. This survey is approved by the Monash University Human Research Ethics Committee (MUHREC) project titled ‘Communicating Health: perceptions of social media posts’ (project ID 19201). Please read this Explanatory Statement in full before deciding whether or not to participate in this research. If you would like further information regarding any aspect of this project, you are encouraged to contact one of the researchers: Tracy McCaffrey: tracy.mccaffrey@monash.edu, Eva Jenkins: eljen4@student.monash.edu, Jasmina Ilicic: jasmina.ilicic@monash.edu, Annika Molenaar: annika.molenaar@monash.edu We are trying to learn about how we can use social media to create and share healthy eating messages. The aim of the overall project is to understand how young adults are using social media. If you are over 18 years old, currently living in Australia and enrolled in the Monash University Department of Marketing Pilot Student Subject Pool, we would like to invite you to complete the following 20-25 minute online survey. If you decide you want to participate you will be asked your opinions on social media posts we will show you, eating, social media use, health and demographic questions including physical activity level, height and weight. The survey is anonymous and doesn’t ask you to disclose any information you could be identified with such as your name. If you decide to take part you are still free to stop at any time without giving a reason, however, your answers will not be able to be removed from the data as this survey is anonymous. If this survey brings up any issues, services available include: - Monash Nutrition Clinic for further information on your diet (has some costs involved): <https://www.monash.edu/medicine/base/about/clinics/nutrition-clinic> - Monash counselling services (only available to Monash staff and students): <https://www.monash.edu/health/counselling> - Lifeline phone line: 13 11 14 - Butterfly foundation phone line: 1800 33 4673 Data will be collected and stored on the survey software Qualtrics and stored electronically on a secure drive that only the research team has access to. Any complaints should be directed to the Executive Officer, Monash University Human Research Ethics Committee (MUHREC): Room 111, Building 3e Research Office

Monash University VIC 3800; Tel: +61 3 9905 2052; Email: muhrec@monash.edu; Fax: +61 3 9905 3831.

- I would like to take part and consent for my responses to be used for research purposes (1)
- I would not like to take part (2)

np I have an extra layer of fat that sits on my muscles. Every time I try to lose it, my body resists. It's a struggle. For years, I tried to lose that weight with diet after diet. Eventually, I have realised that there's actually nothing wrong with my body or my metabolism, and that maybe - I'm just not meant to lose that 'extra' weight.

This 'extra' weight is what keeps my hormones balanced, my mood stable and energy high. This 'extra' weight means I can regulate my temperature easily and sit comfortably thanks to it's cushiness. This so-called 'extra' layer is what keeps me warm at night so I can fall asleep easily. It keeps me going when I get hungry. It's what will protect me if I ever get sick. So it seems this 'extra' weight is not a burden (like I thought), but a security blanket. My body is not broken. My body loved me before I ever loved it and never wanted me to lose this lovely layer. While this extra fat means I'll never a six-pack, it's a small price to pay to have an energetic, healthy body. Accepting my natural body shape and my healthy weight has been one of the healthiest things I've done for myself. I've realise that this is my natural healthy weight, and I'm not longer willing to fight against it just to fit into people's idea of what a conventional healthy body looks like. This is what a healthy body looks like for me. And I love my layers. #realhealthlookslike #myhealthybody linda_rubio1984: Six years with this guy! Married for two. He doesn't even have Instagram but I wanted you guys to know something. I know I'm not meant to say this kinda thing but this guy... He loved me before I loved myself. Or should I say, he loved my body before I loved my body. We met when I was at my heaviest weight. I hated my body yet he told me he loved me no matter what I weighed. He told me that my body was perfect the way it is. And I think I knew I'd marry him from that moment.

It hit me hard because I realised that I didn't yet love myself in that way. I had put conditions on my own self-acceptance telling myself that only "When you lose weight, you will be ok".

His word triggered me to start working toward loving myself and over the past few years I've put in the work to get to a point when I know deep down that I am worthy. No matter what I weigh, or achieve or look like. Being loved exactly as you are - no strings attached... well, it's life-changing.

So, I want put a idea out there for you. You don't need to wait for someone else to love you and accept you, like I waited (for too long). You don't even need to believe in it yet, you only have to believe that it's a goal worth working toward. Simply decide that loving yourself unconditionally is a goal worth working for. Once you realise that it's something you want and deserve, you can start making the changes you need to get there.

Start of Block: 3. Healthy eating and consumption

Q10.1 Please tell us more about your diet and health-related beliefs.

Q10.2 Which of these statements do you identify with the most? (Choose one)

- I'm passionate about healthy eating and health plays a big part in my life. I use social media to follow active lifestyle personalities or get new recipes/exercise ideas. I may even buy superfoods or follow a particular type of diet. I like to think I am super healthy. (1)
- I'm health-conscious and being healthy and eating healthy is important to me. Although health means different things to different people, I make conscious lifestyle decisions about eating based on what I believe healthy means. I look for new recipes and healthy eating information on social media. (2)
- I aspire to be healthy (but struggle sometimes). Healthy eating is hard work! I've tried to improve my diet, but always find things that make it difficult to stick with the changes. Sometimes I notice recipe ideas or healthy eating hacks, and if it seems easy enough, I'll give it a go. (3)
- I try and live a balanced lifestyle, and I think that all foods are okay in moderation. I shouldn't have to feel guilty about eating a piece of cake now and again. I get all sorts of inspiration from social media like finding out about new restaurants, fun recipes and sometimes healthy eating tips. (4)
- I'm contemplating healthy eating but it's not a priority for me right now. I know the basics about what it means to be healthy, but it doesn't seem relevant to me right now. I have taken a few steps to be healthier but I am not motivated to make it a high priority because I have too many other things going on in my life. (5)
- I'm not bothered about healthy eating. I don't really see the point and I don't think about it. I don't really notice healthy eating tips or recipes and I don't care what I eat. (6)
