

Figure S1. Summary of the findings.

Among hypertensive patients, elevated levels of mir-145-5p and Let-7c are associated with carotid atherosclerotic plaques. The dashed arrows indicate the potential mechanisms by which these miRNAs might modulate atherosclerosis based on gene ontology analysis.

---