

Improving Ethical Leadership in Its Cultural Context: New Challenges and Prospects

Guest Editors:

Prof. Dr. Karin Lasthuizen

Wellington School of Business and Government, Victoria
University of Wellington,
Wellington 6012, New Zealand

Dr. Iris Van Eeden Jones

Wellington School of Business
and Government, Victoria
University of Wellington,
Wellington 6012, New Zealand

Dr. Elme Vivier

Nottingham Business School,
Nottingham Trent University,
Nottingham NG1 4FQ, UK

Deadline for manuscript
submissions:

15 October 2024

Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

For a deeper understanding of ethical leadership, it is of crucial importance to analyse how values, culture and place shape ethical leadership and vice versa, and whether there may exist cross-culturally concordances. Understanding these cultural contexts helps improve the way we interpret, define and research ethical leadership.

In this Special Issue, we seek to encourage debate across various disciplines in order to broaden and deepen the interpretations and theorisations of ethical leadership in its cultural context. We are therefore interested in case studies that illuminate cultural contexts, especially from non-Western settings, alongside studies that employ psychological or quantitative approaches in order to identify and compare how particular contextual factors affect ethical leadership, but also studies that explore how ethical leadership is constructed and contested historically, culturally and politically.

Abstracts and Manuscripts should be submitted after 1 October 2023.

