

Knowledge Management & Social Entrepreneurship

Guest Editors:

Dr. Valentina Ndou

Department of Innovation
Engineering, Università del
Salento Piazza Tancredi, 73100
Lecce, Italy

Dr. Gioconda Mele

Department of Engineering for Innovation, University of Salento,
73100 Lecce LE, Italy

Message from the Guest Editors

The nature of development has changed radically with the increasing knowledge intensity of the contemporary economy. Competitiveness and innovation are highly dependent on processes of intense knowledge dynamism (Fachinelli et al., 2014) aiming to transform and reconfigure knowledge assets, competencies, and resources in an innovative way and to fully exploit the potential for growth.

Deadline for manuscript submissions:

closed (31 August 2021)

