

an Open Access Journal by MDPI

Post-COVID Politics of Displacement: Marginalization, Precarity and Identity

Guest Editor

Prof. Dr. Burcu Akan Ellis

Department of International Relations, San Francisco State University, San Francisco, CA 94132, USA

Deadline for manuscript submissions:

closed (30 April 2024)

Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

This Special Issue aims to analyze the increased marginalization of displaced people around the world in the so-called "new normal" and underscore the intersectionality of displacement politics with agency, belonging, and identity formation among refugees and immigrants under conditions of restricted borders, precarious crossings, and closed legal systems. While about COVID-19 has emphasized disproportionate effects of the pandemic and associated measures on marginalized and displaced populations, there has been less focus on how global immigration restrictions that persist have compounded the trauma and increased vulnerability of the post-COVID landscape. Understanding the effects of precarity on refugees, asylumseekers, and undocumented migrants, as well as the creative responses of these populations to resist, persist, and resiliently survive these restrictions, are necessary to critically approach global trends that so directly affect human security.

an Open Access Journal by MDPI

Editors-in-Chief

Dr. Athena Leoussi

Department of languages and Cultures, University of Reading, Reading RG6 6EE, UK

Prof. Dr. Natividad Gutiérrez Chong

Institute of Social Research, National Autonomous University of Mexico, Mexico City 04510, Mexico

Prof. Dr. Joanna Beata Michlic

UCL Institute for Advanced Studies, Centre for Collective Violence, Holocaust and Genocide Studies, University College London, London WC1E 6BT, UK

Message from the Editorial Board

Genealogy is a scholarly journal that provides a venue for academic. cutting-edge contributions to interdisciplinary field of genealogy studies. We welcome contributions that examine genealogies of family lineage. genealogical considerations and methods in examining other historical processes (including migration histories, personal, social, and national identities, and social institutions) or study the construction of genealogical narratives. The journal is also interested in biographical studies and their contribution to the understanding of broader social and historical phenomena.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, ESCI (Web of Science), and many other databases.

Rapid Publication: manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 24.9 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 4.9 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the second half of 2023).

Contact Us