Message from the Guest Editor

Genealogy is now accepting submissions for a Special Issue on the theme, “Political Genealogy After Foucault.” Inspired by the work of Michel Foucault, this issue invites essays from scholars employing political genealogy as a methodology and model of theoretical inquiry representing a wide range of disciplines, from the social sciences to the humanities, from philosophy to geography to urban studies to cultural theory. The goal of this special issue is to publish some of the best and most current work in political genealogy, showing how this work invites us to rethink many of the key concepts in political theory as well as real ground-level political practice. Broadly conceived, the editorial team is interested in articles which demonstrate how political genealogy helps us to understand what Foucault calls “the history of our present,” while at the same time looking to our future, to what being a political subject will look like in a post-representational world.

Message from the Editorial Board

Genealogy provides a venue for cutting-edge contributions to the interdisciplinary field of genealogy studies. We welcome contributions that examine genealogies of family lineage, use genealogical methods to examine other historical processes (include migration histories, social identities, and social institutions) or study the construction of genealogical narratives. Various genres, such as specialized research articles, reviews, communications and other creative projects, are welcomed. Manuscripts containing original, creative research ideas are especially appreciated. All papers will be peer-reviewed promptly. On behalf of the distinguished members of the editorial board, we extend our welcome to all researchers working on these subjects to contribute to Genealogy.

Author Benefits

Open Access:—free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

Rapid Publication: manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision provided to authors approximately 21 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 7.4 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2020).

Recognition of Reviewers: reviewers who provide timely, thorough peer-review reports receive vouchers entitling them to a discount on the APC of their next publication in any MDPI journal, in appreciation of the work done.
