Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

Diabetes in the elderly is a critical problem worldwide. According to the World Health Organization, the number of people living with diabetes has quadrupled since 1980 to 422 million adults or 8.5% of the population in 2014. The aging of the population is also an important factor in this diabetes epidemic.

The complications of diabetes are many and include heart attack, stroke, blindness, kidney failure, neuropathy and lower limb amputations. In older adults, diabetes is linked also to higher mortality, cognitive dysfunction due to Alzheimer's and multi-infarct dementia......
