Dear Colleagues,

Advancements in genomic, transcriptomic, and proteomic analyses yield an expanding data stream, often surpassing personal handling capacity. The abundance of details hinders a comprehensive view. Typically, we operate within the paradigm of one gene, one enzyme, one function, or, at best, many genes, many enzymes, and many functions. However, integrative analysis methods lack comprehensive insights into biological processes. While we can read, our comprehension is limited. In recent years, remarkable progress has unfolded in two thriving scientific fields: data science and artificial intelligence. In this Special Issue o f IJMS, we aim to explore the intersection of transcriptomics and proteomics in the emerging landscape of data science and artificial intelligence. We invite researchers to submit innovative works to contribute to this melting pot. To achieve this, we focus on fungi as biologically complex yet manageable systems, considering their genome size and developmental processes.

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, MEDLINE, Embase, CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q1 (Biochemistry & Molecular Biology) / CiteScore - Q1 (Inorganic Chemistry)
