Message from the Guest Editors

In this Special Issue, we focus on 1) the critical roles of glial cells (astrocyte, oligodendrocytes, and microglia) to generate proper spines as environmental architecture. 2) How  $\text{Ca}^{2+}$  signaling is dysregulated to generate abnormal synaptic plasticity and spine formation in neuropsychiatry diseases. 3) How nutrients, such as DHA, EPA and arachidonic acid, affect neurogenesis and circuits to improve the psychiatry diseases. 4) How neuropsychiatry-related genes address abnormal spine formation and circuits in neuropsychiatry diseases in human.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, MEDLINE, Embase, CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q1 (Biochemistry & Molecular Biology) / CiteScore - Q1 (Inorganic Chemistry)
