

remote sensing

To acknowledge all of you who have generously given your time to review papers submitted to Remote Sensing, on behalf of the Editor-in-Chief, Dr. Prasad S. Thenkabail, we plan to dedicate this award to those reviewers who are able to provide dedication, professionalism, and timeliness when they review manuscripts.

Although anonymous peer-reviewing is one of the cornerstones of publishing high quality comprehensive manuscripts for the advancement of science and engineering research, it is also often one of the most underappreciated of the many requests and demands made of subject experts. It is for this reason that the Remote Sensing editing team is extremely grateful to reviewers for the time, energy and dedication that they freely give to support their peers.
