We are delighted to announce the winner of the 2017 Best Guest Editor Award for Remote Sensing.

This award is granted to the guest editorship of the Special Issue entitled "Earth Observations for Geohazards" (http://www.mdpi.com/journal/remotesensing/special_issues/earth_geohazards). The Special Issue published 44 papers with an average number of 4.5 citations from each paper (by the end of 2017) which is the highest among all the Special Issue candidates.

This Special Issue was led by Prof. Dr. Zhenhong Li (Newcastle University, UK) and Prof. Roberto Tomas (University of Alicante, Spain). We would like to congratulate them on this award.

The Best Guest Editor Award is awarded to Guest Editors dedicated to soliciting good papers to Remote Sensing. With their support, Remote Sensing attracted and published more high-quality papers.

This award consists of 1200 Swiss Francs and two electronic certificates for the Guest Editors.
