Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue is seeking for high quality original contributions, soliciting high level technical papers addressing the main research challenges in the vehicular networking, sensing, and information systems areas. The possible contributions should consist in original theoretical or practical analyses, never published elsewhere, and validated by simulations or real test beds.

Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Information management services
- Vehicular ad hoc networks
- Vehicular sensor networks
- 5G in vehicular networking
- Multimedia communications in vehicular scenarios
- Ontologies for Intelligent Transportation Systems
- Content distribution in vehicular environments
- Vehicular cloud computing and networking
- Knowledge data systems for Vehicular Communications
- Advanced services through Vehicular Communications
- Social Networks in vehicular environments
- Security, trust and privacy in Vehicular Communications
- Autonomous driving
- Models, simulators and tools for Intelligent Transportation Systems
