Message from the Guest Editors

In the era of digitalization of education, creating new online, immersive and distributed learning systems is necessary for the successful involvement of Gen Y and Gen Z in the educational process. Properly evaluated and categorized online, immersive, distributed tools and techniques will complement educators' "toolboxes" with a set of skills and approaches to education that foster academic integrity and quality.

The Issue welcomes research papers on current and future innovations in education that address the following keywords:

Online learning: methods, approaches and systems; immersive learning: evaluation of the various tools' effectiveness; distributed learning: successful models for access to educational content "anytime, anywhere"; pedagogical innovations in online, immersive and distributed learning: how to involve Gen Y and Gen Z in the educational process; collaborative creation of education scenarios in the immersive environment: best practices; quality of education and academic integrity in online, immersive and distributed learning; successful university cases in the implementation of online, immersive and distributed learning systems...
