Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

This special issue is calling for all the contributions that apply the network structure both symmetric and asymmetric in different application areas at all the levels with the analysis of the impact of the symmetry in the network structure. It intends to show the potential of the network structure from macro to micro level for cooperative working and cooperative task accomplishment related to the symmetry characteristic. All the up-to-date related contributions are welcome to submit.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Symmetry is ultimately the most important concept in natural sciences. It is not surprising then that very basic and fundamental research achievements are related to symmetry. For instance, the Nobel Prize in Physics 1979 (Glashow, Salam, Weinberg) was received for a unified symmetry description of electromagnetic and weak interactions, while the Nobel Prize in Physics 2008 (Nambu, Kobayashi, Maskawa) was received for the discovery of the mechanism of spontaneous breaking of symmetry, including CP symmetry. Our journal is named Symmetry and it manifests its fundamental role in nature.
