

Figure S1. Honey bee population allocation by the STRUCTURE program based on the genotyping of 5 STR loci. Each individual is represented by a partitioned vertical bar, with partitions (represented by different colors) representing the posterior probability of each individual belonging to one or another population. K: number of populations assumed by the model; Ln: average likelihood value for all runs for the same K.