Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

Crocodilian biology is a difficult yet important field of study and is gaining increased recognition in terms of contemporary threats, conservation and conflict management. In order to maintain a pace of scientific progress consistent with that of anthropogenic degradation, we must consolidate perspectives, relevant data and integrative ideas to develop a forward-thinking approach to crocodilian conservation.

In this Special Issue, we invite contributions that investigate crocodilian population, reproductive or behavioral ecology, diversification or trait evolution, physiology or ecotoxicology, or large-scale population-specific demography that allow for the integration of data across study systems. Editorial-style perspectives are also welcome. This Special Issue is designed to collate information regarding the current progress in crocodilian biology in an effort to integrate knowledge and provide collaborative approaches to crocodilian conservation and management.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Animals is an on-line open access journal that was first published in 2011. Animals adheres to rigorous peerreview and editorial processes and publishes only high quality manuscripts that address important issues in the many varied disciplines that involve animals, with a focus on animal science, animal welfare and animal ethics. Animals is covered in the Science Citation Index Expanded (SCIE) in Web of Science, with the latest Impact Factor: 3.0 (2022, ranks 12 /62 (Q1) in ‘Agriculture, Dairy & Animal Science’; 13/143 (Q1) in ‘Veterinary Sciences’), 5-Year Impact Factor: 3.2.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, Embase, PubAg, AGRIS, Animal Science Database, CAB Abstracts, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q1 (Veterinary Sciences) / CiteScore - Q1 (General Veterinary)
