Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

The aim of this Special Issue is to encourage the submission of presentations and posters proposed as part of the Conservation Medicine and Wildlife Health International Seminar organized by the University of Teramo, in collaboration with Maiella National Park, in June 2022.

The seminar will focus on recent developments in conservation medicine and wildlife health, covering topics and advances relating to wildlife health and conservation medicine, capture and handling techniques and wildlife health research, infectious and parasitic diseases, the wildlife–livestock interface, perspectives on ecosystem health, environmental change, and the human–wildlife interface.
