Message from the Guest Editors

The stability of the foundation directly determines the safety of the superstructure. Thus, the foundation is very important to the superstructure. The type of foundations may include the pile, suction caisson foundation, diaphragm walling, composite foundation, deep water foundation, anchor foundation, and so on. This Special Issue aims to collect the newest technology related to foundation engineering and the design for the future.

This Special Issue of Applied Sciences seeks to incorporate the latest developments in Recent Progress on Advanced Foundation Engineering, including the bearing characteristics of foundation, latest theoretical research, new type of foundation, innovative design concepts, intelligent test technologies, and advanced construction methods.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the world of science becomes ever more specialized, researchers may lose themselves in the deep forest of the ever increasing number of subfields being created. This open access journal Applied Sciences has been started to link these subfields, so researchers can cut through the forest and see the surrounding, or quite distant fields and subfields to help develop his/her own research even further with the aid of this multi-dimensional network.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), Inspec, CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q1 (Engineering, Multidisciplinary) / CiteScore - Q1 (General Engineering)
