

Special Issue

Artificial Intelligence in Mental Health and Counseling Practices

Message from the Guest Editors

We are delighted to introduce our forthcoming Special Issue of Behavioral Sciences focused on artificial intelligence in behavioral health. This timely collection explores the intersection between AI technologies and behavioral health assessment, interventions, and treatment. Key themes will include the following topics:

- AI-powered screening and assessment tools that can identify early warning signs of mental health conditions;
- Natural language processing applications for therapeutic conversations and sentiment analysis;
- Machine learning approaches for treatment personalization and outcome prediction;
- Ethical considerations around data privacy, algorithmic bias, and the human–AI therapeutic relationship;
- Implementation frameworks for clinical settings with varying resources and technological capabilities.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

With warm greetings, it is a pleasure to invite you to contribute a research article or comprehensive review for consideration and publication in Behavioral Sciences. Behavioral Sciences is an international, scientific, open access journal providing an advanced forum for discussions and research regarding the intersection between psychiatry, neuroscience, psychology, cognitive and behavioral sciences, and behavioral biology. More information are available at: <https://www.mdpi.com/journal/behavsci>. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors and have the opportunity to consider your work for publication.
