Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

The journal biomedicines is currently running a special issue entitled “Immunological Mechanisms of Host Defense and Inflammation: Insights into Immune Responses and Homeostasis”. I would like to invite you to contribute an original research or review article to this special issue. The current issue will focus on immunometabolism, elucidating potential molecular mechanisms driving host defense. Original research or review articles related to host-driven generation of the defensive environment in terms of sensing, signaling, inflammation and killing of pathogens as well as immune responses driving homeostasis and resolution of infection are welcome.
