Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

Human microbiota, made up of trillions of microorganisms that reside in our bodies, has emerged as a key player in the development and progression of various diseases, including endocrine disorders. By comprehensively examining the interaction between microbiota and the endocrine system, this Special Issue wishes to elucidate the mechanisms by which microbiota disbiosis may contribute to the onset and progression of endocrine-related disease, with the ultimate aim of providing valuable insights into directions of future research and clinical interventions in this exciting field.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Biomedicines (ISSN 2227-9059) is an open access journal devoted to all aspects of research on human health and disease, the discovery and characterization of new therapeutic targets, therapeutic strategies, and research of naturally driven biomedicines, pharmaceuticals, and biopharmaceutical products. Topics include pathogenesis mechanisms of diseases, translational medical research, biomaterial in biomedical research, natural bioactive molecules, biologics, vaccines, gene therapies, cell-based therapies, targeted specific antibodies, recombinant therapeutic proteins, nanobiotechnology driven products, targeted therapy, bioimaging, biosensors, biomarkers, and biosimilars. The journal is open for publication of studies conducted at the basic science and preclinical research levels. We invite you to consider submitting your work to Biomedicines, be it original research, review articles, or developing Special Issues of current key topics.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, CAPLus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q1 (Pharmacology and Pharmacy) / CiteScore - Q2 (Medicine (miscellaneous))
