Message from the Guest Editor

Despite the decreasing incidence of gastric cancer, advanced gastric cancer still is a threat for humankind, especially in Southeast Asia. Despite its singular diagnostic name, adenocarcinoma, gastric cancer actually has heterogeneous genetic aberrations and various molecular subtypes. The interaction of cancer cells with their various microenvironmental components also needs to be discovered to better understand this deadly disease. This Special Issue will highlight the molecular mechanisms inducing intratumoral heterogeneity of gastric cancer, the crosstalk of cancer cells with their microenvironment, and the potential therapeutic vulnerabilities.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Biomedicines (ISSN 2227-9059) is an open access journal devoted to all aspects of research on human health and disease, the discovery and characterization of new therapeutic targets, therapeutic strategies, and research of naturally driven biomedicines, pharmaceuticals, and biopharmaceutical products. Topics include pathogenesis mechanisms of diseases, translational medical research, biomaterial in biomedical research, natural bioactive molecules, biologics, vaccines, gene therapies, cell-based therapies, targeted specific antibodies, recombinant therapeutic proteins, nanobiotechnology driven products, targeted therapy, bioimaging, biosensors, biomarkers, and biosimilars. The journal is open for publication of studies conducted at the basic science and preclinical research levels. We invite you to consider submitting your work to Biomedicines, be it original research, review articles, or developing Special Issues of current key topics.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges \(APC\) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE \(Web of Science\), PubMed, PMC, CAPUS / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q1 (Pharmacology and Pharmacy) / CiteScore - Q2 (Medicine (miscellaneous))
