Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

Histone modification plays a vital role in regulating gene expression, and the dysregulation of histones has been implicated in the development and progression of many diseases, including cancer. This Special Issue seeks to explore the latest advances on the role of histone modification in cancer development, with a particular emphasis on its impact on gene regulation. We welcome original research articles and reviews that investigate this topic, and we encourage submissions that provide insight into the molecular mechanisms by which histone modification contributes to cancer pathogenesis.

Message from the Editorial Board

Biomolecules is a multidisciplinary open-access journal that reports on all aspects of research related to biogenic substances, from small molecules to complex polymers. We invite manuscripts of high scientific quality that pertain to the diverse aspects relevant to organic molecules, irrespective of the biological question or methodology. We aim for a competent, fair peer review and rapid publication. Please look at some of the exciting work that has been published in Biomolecules so far. We would be delighted to welcome you as one of our authors.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, MEDLINE, PMC, Embase, CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q1 (Biochemistry and Molecular Biology) / CiteScore - Q1 (Biochemistry)
