Message from the Guest Editor

Digital health technologies have started to play a fundamental role in healthcare by enhancing patient diagnosis and (remote) monitoring, streamlining processes, enabling precision medicine with data analytics, and improving healthcare access through telemedicine. As the healthcare landscape evolves, digital innovations are transforming cancer care, from early detection to precision treatment, monitoring and patient support.

We invite researchers, clinicians, and technologists to share their insights, studies, and innovations in digital health technologies applied in cancer management. Topics of interest include but are not limited to AI-driven diagnostics, telemedicine, wearable devices, and data analytics.

Do not miss this opportunity to contribute to the advancement of cancer care through digital health technologies. Submit your cutting-edge research today and shape the future of oncology.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Cancers is an international online journal addressing both clinical and basic science issues related to cancer research. The journal is publishing in Open Access format, which will certainly evolve to ensure that the journal takes full advantage of the rapidly changing world of information and knowledge dissemination. It publishes high-quality clinical, translational, and basic science research on cancer prevention, initiation, progression, and treatment, as well as other related topics, particularly to capture the most seminal studies in the rapidly growing area of immunology, immunotherapy, and tumor microenvironment.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, Embase, CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q2 (Oncology) / CiteScore - Q1 (Oncology)
