Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

Tobacco use is associated with the development of cancers in multiple organ sites in humans. This volume will present the latest information on the epidemiology of tobacco-related cancers, the mechanisms by which tobacco carcinogens and co-carcinogens induce cancer in these organ sites, and strategies for the prevention of tobacco-related cancers. Particular emphasis will be placed on new developments in the epidemiology, carcinogenesis and prevention of tobacco-related cancers in the last 5 – 10 years. Authors are encouraged to submit original manuscripts and review articles on topics of relevance to the role of tobacco in the epidemiology, etiology and prevention of tobacco –related cancers.

Cancers is an international online journal addressing both clinical and basic science issues related to cancer research. The journal is publishing in Open Access format, which will certainly evolve to ensure that the journal takes full advantage of the rapidly changing world of information and knowledge dissemination. It publishes high-quality clinical, translational, and basic science research on cancer prevention, initiation, progression, and treatment, as well as other related topics, particularly to capture the most seminal studies in the rapidly growing area of immunology, immunotherapy, and tumor microenvironment.
