Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

Otto S. Wolfbeis was a full professor of Analytical and Interface Chemistry at the University of Regensburg, Germany, from 1995 to 2012, and is well known as a pioneer in the field of luminescence chemo- and biosensors. This Special Issue is dedicated to celebrating the career of Professor Otto S. Wolfbeis in honor of his contributions in the field of chemical and biosensors.

This Special Issue aims to provide an overview and show original innovations in current development and state-of-the-art techniques in chemical and biosensors in the journal Chemosensors. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Reviews on chemical sensors and biosensors;
- Innovations on chemical sensors and biosensors;
- Optical sensors and biosensors;
- Electrochemical sensors and biosensors;
- Electrogenerated chemiluminescence sensors and biosensors;
- New sensor film or nanosensors;
- Novel sensor schemes and new quantifying methods;
- Applications of chemo- and biosensors;
- Advanced nanomaterials for use in sensing and bioimaging.

Message from the Editorial Board

Chemosensors continues to grow as a forum for all manners of sensing that encompass chemistry. Chemosensors is published in open access format – all articles and content are released on the internet immediately following acceptance, thus allowing unlimited access to the content as soon as it is published. We would be happy to have you join our growing list of authors.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), CAPlus / SciFinder, Inspec, Engineering Village and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q1 (Instruments and Instrumentation) / CiteScore - Q2 (Analytical Chemistry)
