Dear colleagues ,

We are happy to announce an exciting opportunity for scholars and experts of nanotechnology to contribute their research findings to our special issue on "Biosafety and Biotoxicity of Nanomaterials." The issue aims to focus on the critical aspects of interaction of nanomaterials with biological systems and their potential implications on human health and the environment. Increasing use of nanomaterials in various sectors like cosmetics, food packaging, clothing and bio-medical arena are raising concerns regarding their safety, and impact on living organisms.
