Message from the Guest Editor

In this Special Issue, we are looking for reviews and original articles to improve, disseminate, and homogenize the diagnosis and management of menopause, by showing the role of hormonal dosage, ultrasound, and clinical examination in the diagnosis of menopause, especially in the case of premature ovarian failure and benefits and disadvantages of different types of treatment, especially hormonal ones. Therefore, any contributions in this field by reporting experiences around the early diagnosis of menopause and hormonal and non-hormonal replacement treatment or systematic literature reviews on this topic are welcome.
