Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue, entitled “Multimedia in Radio Communication and Teleinformatics”, is dedicated to original articles and extended versions of papers published in the context of the “Conference of Radiocommunications and ICT \(KRiT\)”.

This Special Issue focuses on the latest research and applications in multimedia telecommunications networks. With the rise of the Internet of Things (IoT) and other emerging technologies, there is a growing need for efficient and reliable multimedia radio transmission in various settings. This includes local multimedia WLAN wireless networks, multimedia wireless sensor and ad hoc networks, and multimedia sea, air and satellite radio communication.

In addition, this Special Issue aims to explore multimedia systems and radio communication networks for special applications, such as radio and television systems and networks. The use of multimedia techniques, architectures and telecommunications protocols is also of great interest.

We look forward to receiving your contributions.
