Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue will also focus on solutions to enlarge the coverage of current radio frequency identification (RFID) solutions aiming at pedestrian and cyclist safety in outdoor automotive scenarios.

We invite researchers and practitioners to submit high-quality contributions that will stimulate continuous efforts to improve RFID technology in the context of the following non-exclusive and indicative list of research topics:

- Millimeter wave (mm-Wave) and terahertz radio frequency identification (THID) tags
- RFID indoor and outdoor localization systems
- Solutions for clutter and multipath suppressions
- RFID system simulations, measurements, and modeling
- Nonlinear RFID
- Wireless body area networks (WBANs) based on RFID systems
- RFID data fusion
- RFID technology for smart healthcare, environments, and sensing
- RFID employment in facing pandemic outbreaks
- Novel wireless sensor systems and networks
- RFID emerging technologies and applications
