Message from the Guest Editor

Bioenergy has played an increasingly important role in the decarbonization of hard-to-abate industries such as aviation, heavy road transport, and steelmaking. Achieving net-zero emissions in these industries by 2050 necessitates the cost-effective production of low-carbon bioenergy, including bioelectricity, liquid transport biofuels, and gases biofuels, to fulfill their energy demands.

The Special Issue on Advanced Bioenergy Production Technologies aims to bring together a comprehensive collection of original research and review articles, highlighting the latest advancements and breakthroughs in the field. We invite submissions on a range of topics, including but not limited to the following:

- Biomass pre-treatment technologies
- Biochemical conversion
- Thermochemical conversion
- Algae-based biofuels
- Waste-to-energy
- Techno-economic analysis and life cycle assessment
