Message from the Guest Editor

Analytical methods to determine honey authenticity and to detect honey adulteration include chromatography, mass spectroscopy (MS), nuclear magnetic resonance (NMR), chromatography coupled to Isotope Ratio Mass Spectrometry (HPLC-IRMS), vibrational (near-infrared, mid-infrared and Raman) spectroscopy, calorimetric methods (DSC), and Stable Carbon Isotope Ratio Analysis (SCIRA).

A thorough updated review of both standard and the most used as well as novel analytical methods for the analysis of honey will be presented in the proposed special issue making an effort to include the work of well established researchers working on the above subjects from around the world.
