Message from the Guest Editors

High value-added agrofoods and their byproducts are ubiquitous and abundant sources of nutrients and functional food ingredients. The food processing of agrofood directly influences the structure, composition, stability, bioactivity, bioavailability, and nutrition of the nutrients and functional ingredients and also directly affects the application of agrofoods. High-quality manuscripts related, but not limited to, the following topics are welcomed:

1. Novel processing technologies for the utilization of agrofoods.
2. Composition evaluation of agrofoods.
3. Impact of food processing on the structure, composition, stability, bioactivity, bioavailability, and nutrition of functional ingredients in agrofoods.
4. Intermolecular interactions of nutrients and functional ingredients during food processing.
5. New sources of agrofood.
6. Novel properties of nutrients and bioactive ingredients from agrofood.
7. Stabilization strategies for the nutrients and bioactive ingredients of agrofood.
8. Quality improvement of agrofoods.
9. Utilization of the byproducts of agrofoods.
