Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue of Genealogy invites submissions that explore the nature of these contests over memory in South Africa and the United States, with a focus on struggles over the legacy of white supremacy. Although all submissions are welcome, potential contributions might consider some of the following:

Deadline for manuscript
submissions:

1 May 2025

- Local and popular struggles over the place of race, racism, and honest accounts of white supremacy in school and college curricula;
- The suppression and/or censorship of such accounts;
- The removal of statues, symbols, place names, memorials, museum displays, and other markers conveying a history of racial domination;
- The commissioning and erection of new markers that either provide a more critical account of the history of white supremacy and/or celebrate those who have fought against it;
- Popular artistic, architectural, and/or other community-based projects designed to reveal a hidden or suppressed past;
- Studies of efforts to “decolonize” or transform existing museums and other memory spaces.
