Poverty, Welfare and the Family in C18th and 19th Britain

Guest Editors:

Dr. Alysa Levene
School of History, Philosophy and Culture, Oxford Brookes University, Oxford OX3 0BP, UK

Prof. Dr. Steven King
Department of History, University of Leicester, Leicester LE1 7RH, UK

Deadline for manuscript submissions:
closed (1 December 2019)

Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

This special issue brings together current work on poverty, welfare and the family in C18th and 19th Britain. More than this, it aims to draw together several disparate themes which have the potential to shape the historiography in new directions. In particular, we are interested in commonalities and differences across the British Isles, in personalities and places in relation to welfare regimes, and in new sources and methods which can offer new insights for historian and genealogists alike.

Dr. Alysa Levene
Prof. Dr. Steven King
Guest Editors

Special Issue

Message from the Editorial Board

Genealogy is a scholarly journal that provides a venue for academic, cutting-edge contributions to the interdisciplinary field of genealogy studies. We welcome contributions that examine genealogies of family lineage, use genealogical considerations and methods in examining other historical processes (including migration histories, personal, social, and national identities, and social institutions) or study the construction of genealogical narratives. The journal is also interested in biographical studies and their contribution to the understanding of broader social and historical phenomena.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.
High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, ESCI (Web of Science), and many other databases.
Rapid Publication: manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 26.9 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 5.8 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2024).

Contact Us