Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

The Special Issue includes papers that review ways in which the humanistic disciplines may help us understand and engage with global environmental problems. The issue will define how, to what extent and by which means humanities scholarship and practice may help further pro-environmental behavior. It will contribute to the fast growing literature on environmental humanities by specifically addressing issues of humanities interventions in global change research, policy, and action. It will highlight “environmental humanities in action” by focussing on the contributions environmental humanities have made to address real-world problems. Papers are invited to reflect on the current and potential role of humanities scholarship in international, national, and local contexts of practice.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

We welcome contributions that address fundamental issues in the Humanities from any meaningful perspective, combining past and present concerns in order to blaze a path toward the future. Interdisciplinary approaches are particularly welcome. All submissions will be critically reviewed by peers, aiming for the highest possible scholarly level. Being an online journal, the published papers will reach their desired audiences faster, more reliably, and much more easily than traditional print versions, while upholding the same, if not even higher, scholarly standards.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, ESCI \(Web of Science\), ERIH Plus, and other databases.

Rapid Publication: manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 32.4 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 5.9 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2024).
