Message from the Guest Editor

The IJERPH is pleased to announce an upcoming Special Issue dedicated to "Community-Based Mental Health Promotion and Psychosocial Support". We are inviting researchers, scholars and practitioners to contribute their original research and review articles to this significant topic.

1. Community-based approaches for promoting mental health: exploring strategies, outcomes, and challenges.
2. The role of community engagement in addressing mental health disparities and enhancing well-being.
3. Harnessing social determinants of mental health: understanding the impact and implications for community-based interventions.
4. Building resilient communities: exploring the intersection of mental health, psychosocial support and community resilience.
5. Overcoming stigma and discrimination: promoting inclusion and mental health literacy within community-based programs.
6. Strengthening the integration of mental health and psychosocial support services: multilevel approaches, policy implications and best practices.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Addressing the environmental and public health challenges requires engagement and collaboration among clinicians and public health researchers. Discovery and advances in this research field play a critical role in providing a scientific basis for decision-making toward control and prevention of human diseases, especially the illnesses that are induced from environmental exposure to health hazards. IJERPH provides a forum for discussion of discoveries and knowledge in these multidisciplinary fields. Please consider publishing your research in this high quality, peer-reviewed, open access journal.
