Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

This Special Issue of IJERPH focuses on a collection of research on novel diagnoses and strategies for the promotion of health behavior from translational and clinical viewpoints, including the promotion of mental health and educational and clinical strategies focused on the early detection of risky behaviors causing multiple pathologies (physical and mental health problems, violence, suicide, obesity, or learning disability), as well as new approaches to intervention, treatment, and monitoring their effects.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Addressing the environmental and public health challenges requires engagement and collaboration among clinicians and public health researchers. Discovery and advances in this research field play a critical role in providing a scientific basis for decision-making toward control and prevention of human diseases, especially the illnesses that are induced from environmental exposure to health hazards. IJERPH provides a forum for discussion of discoveries and knowledge in these multidisciplinary fields. Please consider publishing your research in this high quality, peer-reviewed, open access journal.
