Message from the Guest Editor

Green bonds are a distinctive sustainability-oriented fixed-income financial instruments that are intended to raise funds earmarked by the issuer for environmentally friendly projects consistent with a climate-resilient economy. To better understand the importance of green bonds in climate change mitigation, it is essential to explore the benefits and risks concerning firms, institutions, governments and markets.

We are therefore delighted to invite you to submit studies that enhance our understanding of green bonds in the context of climate change mitigation. Both theoretical and empirical papers are encouraged in areas that include, but are not limited to, the following topics:

- The importance of the Green Bond instrument in mitigating climate change across levels such as firms, institutions, governments and markets.
- The relationship between conventional assets and the Green Bond instrument.
- The impact of the green bonds on conventional and renewable energy to address climate change.
- The economic impact of policies promoting the Green Bonds market.
- Demystifying green bonds.
- Green bonds and climate financial instruments.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I'm thrilled to take the leadership reins of the International Journal of Financial Studies and welcome the opportunity to make it one of the vanguard open-source scientific journals in our field. I eagerly look forward to working with the journal editorial team in building upon the quality instilled by my predecessor to develop the title further and broaden the appeal to other new finance research areas while keeping our core a high-quality finance journal that serves and highly values the scientific community, readers and authors alike. IJFS aims to publish high-quality manuscripts in both theoretical and empirical finance spanning all the major research areas in the field. It aims to provide an outlet for original finance scholarly research that promotes interaction among finance scholars and practitioners and bridges the divide that can exist between them.
