This Special Issue “Molecular Research on Catalytic Materials for Green Chemistry,” is devoted to solving the above-mentioned problems by means of catalytic chemistry, which includes both theoretical (attempts to create a theory of anticipating catalytic action and a theory of preparing catalysts, advancing knowledge of the mechanisms of catalysis) and practical (methods for selecting, synthesizing, and applying catalysts) problems for various fields of science, technology, and engineering. Our main goal is to provide researchers working in this field with an opportunity to communicate their experimental and theoretical results as well as reviews, perspectives, and viewpoints to the general public.

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, MEDLINE, Embase, CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q1 (Biochemistry and Molecular Biology) / CiteScore - Q1 (Inorganic Chemistry)
