Message from the Guest Editors

The design, fabrication, synthesis, and characterization of functional and multifunctional nanomaterials include a variety of different processes and techniques. We need to know how to modify molecules on the surfaces of nanoparticles for specific applications. Compared to their traditional counterparts, the functionalization of surfaces of multifunctional nanomaterials increases their interaction and improves their properties. Multifunctional nanomaterials are increasingly being utilized in the engineering, medical, and food industries and in environmental conservation and energy.

This Special Issue also aims to encourage researchers to submit innovative proposals to address one or more of the aforementioned aspects.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, MEDLINE, Embase, CAPus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q1 (Biochemistry and Molecular Biology) / CiteScore - Q1 (Inorganic Chemistry)
