Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

This special issue aims to bring together the latest advancements in the synthesis, characterization, and applications of metal complexes with significant relevance to biomedical research. We invite researchers to contribute original research articles, reviews, case studies, and perspectives that cover, but are not limited to, the following thematic areas:

- I. Synthesis and Characterization of Novel Metal Complexes
- II. Functionalization and Targeting Strategies
- III. Biocompatibility, Toxicology, and Safety Profiles
- IV. Therapeutic Applications
- V. Imaging and Diagnostic Applications
- VI. Challenges and Future Perspectives

Both original research articles and comprehensive review papers that contribute to the understanding and advancement of novel metal complexes for biomedical applications are encouraged. We welcome submissions that explore diverse aspects of the field, and authors are invited to propose additional topics within the overarching theme based on their expertise.

We look forward to receiving your valuable contributions and making this special issue a platform for cutting-edge research in the intersection of metal complexes and biomedical sciences.
