Nanomaterials/Nanocarriers for Drug Delivery for Application in Cancer Therapy

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue of the International Journal of Molecular Sciences, entitled “Nanomaterials/Nanocarriers for Drug Delivery for Application in Cancer Therapy”, welcomes the submission of original articles or reviews on the use of nanoparticles to precisely deliver drugs during cancer treatment, addressing the potential and limitations of such systems, highlighting novel treatment trends, and assessing mechanisms of action. Topics of interest for this Special Issue include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Synthesis strategies and methodologies of novel nanomaterials;
- Characterization of the properties of novel nanocarriers;
- Studies regarding drug loading and release from nanocarriers;
- Mechanisms underlying the nanocarriers in vivo;
- Targeted/modified nanocarriers as delivery vehicles.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, and molecular biophysics. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
