Involvement of Neuroinflammatory Processes in Psychiatric Conditions

Message from the Guest Editor

Lead by and assisted by our Topical Advisory Panel Member Dr. Victoria Gomez-Murcia (University of Murcia), this Special Issue will be centered on the neuroinflammatory aspects of mental conditions in a broad context, including biochemical, genetic, morphological or functional aspects, but also various interventions for their treatment that alleviate inflammatory processes in the brain. Continued research at the intersection of neuroinflammation and psychiatry will contribute to both prevent and provide precise diagnostic and therapeutic approaches to address neuropsychiatric disorders.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, and molecular biophysics. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
