

Special Issue

Bioactive Packaging Materials

Message from the Guest Editors

In this Special Issue, we will overview the major challenges and crucial design issues for development of bioactive packaging. We welcome articles with a strong focus on preparation and characterization of materials, both traditional and new, for packaging applications endowed with biological activity, including antimicrobial and antioxidant activity, or with specific sensors to monitor product quality and properties. Also review articles in the field are welcome.

- active packaging
- biopolymers
- sensors
- sustainable packaging
- nanomaterials
- antimicrobial packaging
- antioxidant packaging
- bio-based materials
- food packaging

Please feel free to contact us if you have interest in our special issue.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, and molecular biophysics. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
