Message from the Guest Editor

The aim of the Special Issue ‘Artificial Intelligence in Practice: Recent Achievements, Limitations, and Future Prospects in Business and Science’ is to intensify the scientific and practical debate on the introduction of AI in business. Accordingly, concrete application scenarios, use cases and best practices from research and various industries will be presented and examined regarding their concrete benefits for business and/or society. In addition, this Special Issue aims to identify limits to the use of AI in business and to identify concrete recommendations for business and policy as well as research needs for the use of AI.
