

insects

an Open Access Journal by MDPI

A Themed Issue in Honor of Prof. Dr. Xin-Hua Wang on the Occasion of His 70th Birthday: Diversity, Ecology and Evolution of Aquatic Insects

Guest Editors:

Dr. Xiao-Long Lin

Prof. Dr. Trond Andersen

Prof. Dr. Susan E. Gresens

Prof. Dr. Bei-Xin Wang

Deadline for manuscript
submissions:
closed (30 October 2023)

Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

This Special Issue is dedicated to Prof. Dr. Xin-Hua Wang, Professor at the College of Life Sciences, Nankai University, China, on the occasion of his 70th birthday and to celebrate his enormous contributions in the field of aquatic insect diversity, ecology and evolution.

Insects is pleased to announce a Special Issue dedicated to Prof. Xin-Hua Wang in honor of his 70th birthday for his outstanding achievements in the field of aquatic insects. This Special Issue aims to publish high-quality original submissions that address and update our understanding of the diversity, ecology and evolution of aquatic insects, including studies in the fields of classic and molecular taxonomy, DNA barcoding, phylogeny, ecology and biogeography.

We look forward to receiving your contributions.

Dr. Xiao-Long Lin
Prof. Dr. Trond Andersen
Prof. Dr. Susan E. Gresens
Prof. Dr. Bei-Xin Wang
Guest Editors

mdpi.com/si/120982

Special Issue