

Special Issue

Research in Chemical Ecology of Insects of Significance to Forestry and Agriculture

Message from the Guest Editor

This Issue will pertain to the semiochemistry of any and all insect species, with an emphasis on forest insects, insect pests of agricultural significance, alien invasives to North America, and alien invasives present on other continents. The emphasis will be on the identification of novel pheromones or pheromone components, as well as on the potential use of pheromones as biorational control methods for insect pests. We invite authors to submit studies of synthetic semiochemicals with characterization data using standard spectroscopic methods.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Arthropods are a diverse and abundant group of animals that are important to a variety of research dictates. For example, hexapods act as bio-indicators of ecosystem function and pest status and serve as model systems for questions concerning physiology, embryology, genetics, and social interaction. The editorial board and staff at Insects is committed to providing contributors an open access forum to showcase objective and innovative research as well as succinct review articles. Our journal is dedicated to providing timely and thorough review of qualified submissions and we welcome you to submit a contribution.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, GEOBASE, PubAg, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q1 (Entomology) / CiteScore - Q1 (Insect Science)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 18.9 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.6 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the second half of 2025).
