Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to cover a wide range of topics related to syncope, from basic research to clinical practice. The scope of this Special Issue therefore includes the following:

- Epidemiology and the economic impact of syncope;
- The mechanisms underlying different types of syncope (reflex, cardiac, neurological);
- Diagnostic strategies and tools for distinguishing between syncope types;
- Prognostication and risk assessment;
- Treatment options: pharmacological and non-pharmacological, device-based, and interventional;
- Quality of life and patient outcomes;
- Role of wearable devices and artificial intelligence in syncope management;
- Autonomic dysfunction, including orthostatic hypotension and POTS (Postural Orthostatic Tachycardia Syndrome);
- Multidisciplinary approaches involving various medical fields (autonomics, neurology, cardiology, etc.);
- Contributions from different professional domains (medicine, nursing, rehabilitation, engineering, data science, psychology).
