Message from the Guest Editor

The progress of endoscopy in the pancreaticobiliary field is remarkable. Various pancreaticobiliary diseases (early-stage pancreaticobiliary cancer, early-stage chronic pancreatitis, etc.), which were previously difficult to diagnose, have become more accurate with the progress of ERCP and EUS. Moreover, the new development of cholangioscopy and pancreatoscopy have brought further possibilities with high diagnostic ability. On the other hand, endoscopic treatment has also made significant progress. Therapeutic indications have expanded steadily, and new therapies that have never existed are being developed and implemented. In particular, the advancement of interventional EUS has revolutionized endoscopic treatment for pancreaticobiliary disease. In this Special Issue, we welcome authors to submit papers on the clinical advance of biliary and pancreatic endoscopy in terms of both diagnosis and treatment.
